PRODUCTION ECONOMICS
Incorporating Journal of Manufacturing and Operations Management
The IJPE focuses on topics treating the interface between engineering and management.
All aspects of the subject in relation to manufacturing and process industries, as well as production in general are covered.
The journal is interdisciplinary in nature, considering whole cycles of activities, such as the product life cycle, i.e., research, design, development, test, launch, and disposal - and the material flow cycle, i.e., supply, production, distribution.
